Gene Key 7: Virtue is it's Own Reward

The Gift of Guidance: The Power Behind the Throne

- I am a natural facilitator. I think at a collective organizational level.
- I help organizations thrive through the self-empowerment of individuals.
- I love to guide people towards increased power, creativity and autonomy.
- My ideal of service calls me to put aside my own opinions and judgments.
- I have a natural ability to listen intently to the needs of others.
- My presence alone brings clarity to others, helping them see future patterns.
- I am always ahead of the crowd, in line with future trends.
- Wherever I am, communication and implementation is easier and smoother.
- I easily create space for organic team harmony to arise on it's own.
- I often lead quietly, preferring to guide the group energy from behind.
- My ability to surrender to life itself is the foundation of my leadership.

The Siddhi of Virtue: Repairing the World

- I am helping set the stage for a new form of collective leadership.
- I can sense the shared energy field that finally brings an end to hierarchy.
- I surrender completely to nature, as it is the secret of true virtue.
- The frequency of virtue pours through my every cell, into all I say and do.
- I enfold all children in an aura of virtue... they are the future of our planet.
- Beyond recognition and service, I live the motto, "Virtue is it's own reward."
- Even my small unseen acts of virtue increase the consciousness of humanity.
- With each virtuous act, I repair the broken shards of Divine Light.
- I embrace virtue, knowing it is the very intent of the universe.
- Deep within my being, I remember the future of mankind.
- I feel the pull of our collective destiny, the very end of time itself.
